BAN WILL BE EXAMINED BY ORDER OF THE COURT.

President B. B. Johnson of the American League has been served with an order of injunction and an order to appear before George J. Gillespie, an attorney, of No. 28 Vesey Street, a referee appointed by the court, to-morrow at 11 o'clock A. M. for examination before trial. The order is signed by Justice P. Lydon of the Supreme Court of New York.

The order for the hearing before the referee was secured by the New York American League Club to enable the owners of the club to examine the league's proceedings and the circumstances surrounding his suspension of Player Carl W. Mays, with particular reference to the absence of any notice of such action to the player, and to examine him as to the nature and extent of his interests in the Cleveland Baseball Company and the nature and extent of that club's indebtedness to him, and to examine him upon the nature and circumstances of his controversy with Mr. Frazee of the Boston Club.

The referee's order is a restraining order preventing Johnson from using any portion of the sinking fund of the American League of Professional Baseball Clubs for or in defense of the injunction proceedings now pending. Mr. Johnson is ordered to appear before the Supreme Court, Part 1, at the County Court House, at 10:15 A. M. to-morrow, at which time the court's injunction should not be made permanent.

The order was granted on affidavits of Charles A. Coniskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, Yankee officials and others, who with Purcell stood a week ago as not to conflict with the Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Engineers' Club, Long Island. It will be a seventy-two hole medal competition. A. D. Locke, president of the Massachusetts Golf Association, also announced that the Massachusetts-Connecticut amateur team match would be played at the Brae Burn Club, Newton, on Sept. 6.

Board of Directors Meet To-Day.
The meeting of the Board of Directors of the American League, called by Col. Ruppert, Harry Frazee and Charles Coniskey, to take up the Mays case and other matters pertaining to the President of the American League, is being held at the Biltmore Hotel this morning, beginning at 11 o'clock. Ban B. may get a fresh wallop before night.

Physician Tells Women How To Regain Strength and Vitality

TO LIFT YOU OUT OF YOUR OLD SELF AND HELP BRING BACK THE ROSY CHEEKS AND STEADY NERVES OF GIRLHOOD DAYS.

Reports Astonishing Results From Short Course of Nuxated Iron, Which Helps Put New Force and Life Into Veins of Weakened, Run-down Women in Two Weeks' Time in Many Cases.

Careful investigation has revealed the fact that many women let themselves get into a run-down physical and mental rut, often resulting in constant fatigue, lack of ambition, a cross, nervous, irritable disposition and general deficiency of the whole system. The alarming prevalence of this condition is being considered most seriously, and to aid interested women, certain physicians have heretofore given their opinion concerning what ought to be done. Every woman who is run down and nervous, who tires easily and who lacks energy and endurance, is urged to read these medical statements carefully in order to learn the real cause of anemia and to find out how she may regain her old self and take up life's duties with new-found strength and vigor.

"Time and again," says Dr. Ferdinand Kline, New York Physician and Medical Author, "women patients come to me and say, 'Doctor, I don't know what is the matter with me—I'm always tired out, nervous, and I'm beginning to look awfully old. I'm so blue and discouraged I don't know what to do. Can you give me something to build me up?' In practically nine out of ten such cases one of the real and true causes of their weakness, nervous conditions may be simply a lack of sufficient iron in the blood.

"Iron is absolutely necessary to enable the blood to change food into muscular, nerve and brain tissue. Without iron you don't eat the strength out of your food. Your blood becomes weak, thin and pale, and as a consequence you feel irritable, run-down, and are slowly worn-out—a burden to yourself and your family.

"Almost invariably in these cases, I prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to enrich the blood and create thousands of new red blood cells, thereby quickly transforming the flabby, toneless, run-down, anemic, nervous, and irritable into firm, healthy tissue. The patient quickly recognizes the unobtrusive and strengthening effect by a feeling of renewed power. I have known Nuxated Iron to make women look years younger and in two weeks' time to give greatly increased strength and energy in many instances.

"There can be no beautiful, attractive, energetic woman without iron. The trouble in the past has been that when women needed iron they generally took ordinary metallic iron, which often corroded the stomach and did more harm than good. I iron-Nuxated Iron—which has not the slightest injurious effect. I personally have used Nuxated Iron frequently when I was not feeling quite up to normal, and I know that it has benefited me tremendously. Moreover, I have recommended it to my fellow physicians who have prescribed it for both their men and women patients with remarkable results."

EVENING WORLD'S OWN SPORT HISTORY What Happens Every Day

TENNIS.
Randolph Lycett and R. V. Thomas of the Australian lawn tennis team made their bow in the singles and doubles tournament on the turf of the Rockaway Hunting Club at Cedarhurst, N. Y., in the singles, defeated Arthur E. Craig, by a score of 6-4, 6-3. Thomas beat Walter Westbrook at 7-5, 6-2. Lycett and Thomas also won in the doubles between H. Gruner and Ben Yamasaki at 6-3, 6-0.

In the second round of the women's tennis tournament at New London Miss Betty Peale of New York defeated Miss Beatrice Ames of Oswego, N. Y., 6-1, 6-2. Miss Gertrude Della Torre of New York defeated Miss Lois Stumer of Chicago, 6-0, 6-1. Mrs. H. C. Yeiser of New York won from Miss Helen Van Vleet by default. Mrs. W. M. Goss of New Britain defeated Miss Adelaide Donaldson of Hartford, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

GOLF.
A. F. Poinsett, champion of the New York Newspaper Golf Club, won chief honors in the city tournament over the Van Cortlandt Park public links. In the final round he defeated W. P. Purcell of Dunwoodie 5 up and 4 to play. The new holder of the Herald Cup made a good job of it, as in the forenoon he eliminated William Wallace, the Brooklyn-Kew-Forest Park man, who with Purcell stood a week ago as not to conflict with the Professional Golfers' Association championship at the Engineers' Club, Long Island. It will be a seventy-two hole medal competition. A. D. Locke, president of the Massachusetts Golf Association, also announced that the Massachusetts-Connecticut amateur team match would be played at the Brae Burn Club, Newton, on Sept. 6.

ATHLETICS.
The Council on Athletics of the University of Pennsylvania has decided to permit the use of Franklin Field for the annual athletic union national championships, Sept. 12 and 13. The council adopted a resolution last summer that Franklin Field should, in the future, be closed to outside competitions, but as no other track in the city was obtainable the Pennsylvania athletic authorities raised the ban rather than have the most go to some other city.

Dick Remer, veteran champion walker of the New York A. C., has transferred his registration with the Metropolitan A. U. from the Mercury Foot organization to unattached. Remer, in having the change recorded, declared he intended to compete for the American Walkers' Club in the future. Under the rules of the A. U. the veteran heel and toe athlete will not be permitted to wear the A. W. A. emblem in open competition until he has competed for a period of one year as unattached.

J. Connelly, Boston A. A.; Bobbie Crawford, Milrose A. A.; Jack Sellers, New York A. A.; John Losero, Paulist A. C.; George Buttner, Jersey Harriers; Charlie Porca, Milrose A. A.; Newton Brown, unattached, and Harry Winger, Paulist A. A., are among the selected list of stars that will compete in the Connellan mile.

Brookes and Patterson Face
Johnston and Griffin To-Day on Longwood Courts.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The right to challenge Vincent Richards and W. T. Tilden Jr. for the lawn tennis doubles championship title of the United States lies between an Australian pair and an American pair. Norman E. Brookes and Gerald L. Patterson came through their semi-final match of the tournament on the turf of the Longwood Cricket Club under a drive. By the hardest sort of playing they defeated Frederick B. Alexander and S. Howard Voshell, winners of the Tri-State championship. The score was 10-8, 6-2, 14-12.

William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin, former national title holders and more recent winners of the Northwestern championship, won in the other semi-final. They defeated their rivals of long standing from the Golden Gate, Maurice E. McLoughlin and Thomas C. Bundy, Pacific Coast champions, after four furiously fought sets. The tally for the winning pair was 4-6, 14-12, 6-0, 6-6.

It was the combination of Brookes' softly played shots and the wallowing smashes and volleys of Patterson that proved too much for Alexander and Voshell. The Americans made a gallant battle of it in the first and second sets. Under the careful coaching of Alexander, who took command on his side of the net, the Americans on several occasions seemed to have the sets within their grasp. Brookes' craft feeding up to Patterson for a smash at such times combined with several mistakes of chance by the Americans, spoiled the points into the Australians' score. Straight through this contest Patterson swung his racket with greater surety and poise than he has displayed on any previous occasion since his arrival in this country a week ago.

McLoughlin went down before Johnston and Griffin fighting with the same old dauntless spirit that he has always shown on the courts. He was out of his mind and Bundy by a widely advertised series of hits and smashing rallies, forcing the set against the younger California pair. They nearly scored by the same tactics in the second set. Johnston stood firm, finding the openings for his whip lash volleys to eventually pull out the set after a total of twenty-six games.

McLoughlin and Bundy lay off for a rest in the third set, as the latter appeared badly shaken by his efforts in the lengthy double session that had preceded it. McLoughlin and Bundy fought out the rallies at a hot pace in the fourth set, but could not win after the games had twice touched at deuce. The final of the tournament will be played to-day and the challenge match for the title on Saturday.

Benny, "General Reliever," Who Has a Nice Girl, Writes "Finis" in His Crime Book

Though There Was Much Dough in His Relief Work (You Ought to See His Bank Account), He Concludes, Now That He Is Caught, to No Longer Emulate the Boss Crook, Hamby, but Heed the Promptings of Love—Nerve? Plenty of It Left.

BENNY MANDEL, twenty years old, held the center of the stage at Essex Market Court yesterday. Like Hamby, he had a bad record which he reviewed with some pride, but unlike the more famous of the two he declared that the game wasn't worth while in the long run and that this was the last offense.

"Frank is a grand guy—very clever," he declared of Officer La Battaglia of Headquarters, who arrested him for forgery. "He doesn't come in and say you're pinched; he comes to my home at the Turkish Baths, wakes me up in the middle of the night and says 'Let's eat.' I could see the funny part of it and so I says 'O. K.' and goes right along with him."

"This is the last one," he continued. "Twenty times this makes, and I've always said that there was only twenty lessons in any book. Now I quit reading. The book is shut."

"Did you make any dough at that game?" inquired Bill Beira, after fingerprinting him.

"Sure. You ought to see the bank-book I got."

Prosecutor Drenzo and Mr. Beira then contributed strong lectures on the evils of the winding path. But Benny was impatient.

"Where is that fellow who had me pinched?"

"I don't know," declared Officer Whalen who shared in the capture. "Well, let's go."

Benny then called up the complaint on the phone and ordered him to come immediately.

"You kept me waiting and I'm sick of it," he declared.

Next he called up the girl.

"This is a contractor for the B. R. T.," he told the employer who answered. "I gotta see Rose at once. Life and death."

"The worst part of it is," he declared after affairs of the heart had been all fixed up, "that somebody pinched my laundry. Twelve all shirts, socks, collars and ties and everything. Somebody goes to the laundry after I gets pinched and says 'Benny is going to Saratoga and wants to doll up,' and they give him my shirts. I probably won't need them for a spell, but wouldn't it get your goat?"

"How often did you pull a trick?"

"Seven days in the week, ain't they? I got pinched on Sunday. If they had let me all, and each counted a day, I'd got 188 years."

Benny didn't specialize. He did several relieving work; in fact he offered to steal Mr. Drenzo's shoes as a practical demonstration.

The phone call, however, was significant. Benny was through, and advised all to quit the game or keep away from it.

"I got a nice girl," he concluded, "and she wants me to quit. I'm going to do it."

JOE Levy is all upset. The wearer of the dual crown of Essex Street likes his little publicity every so often just like all of us, but there is such a thing as overdoing it. And while fame has its rewards, it also brings sorrows, according to the Duke.

Of "several offenders each week have come to Essex Market Court, charged with various offenses, and given the name of Joe Levy. The matter came to a head yesterday. Benny Mandel, charged with a score of indiscretions, gave the name of Joe Levy. Shortly afterward a pickpocket with a Sing Sing record as long as Broadway likewise honored the duke. The latter substitution was not discovered until Bill Beira, the fingerprint man, found that the second "Joe" had the legitimate handle of Sam Reicher. At least the record card showed that was his favorite one.

Then it was that Joe started some action. "I want you to print," he told the reporter for The Evening World, "that I'm not the Joe Levy that get pinched for pickpocketing and burglaries. They are all giving my name. Some day it will look fine, won't it, to see Joe Levy Pinched Again in headlines. How would I be able to square myself? You can quote me as saying that it isn't me. Make it good and strong. If you want to, you can put in the headline 'Duke of Essex Street Not Pinched. But Some One Else Wearing Famous Character's Name.' That would look better. I suppose if something isn't done the pushcart peddlers will all be calling themselves 'Joe Levy.'"

All right, Joe. This squares it.

MCDONALD CABLES OFFER FOR BRITTON AND BASHAM.

George McDonald, an English promoter, has cabled an offer to this country for a battle between Jack Britton and Johnny Basham, the welterweight champion of Europe. Britton's manager is considering the offer, but said to-day he would not answer it until after Jack's bout with Mike O'Dowd in Newark Aug. 22. And while we're on the subject, here's Danny's latest effusion:

Sporting Editor:
If Jack Britton, the welterweight champion, cannot whip Mike O'Dowd on Aug. 22, all of the boxing instructors should go into some other business, for Britton is everything that boxing calls for.

"The American growth takes boxing lessons to be able to defend himself, and if O'Dowd with his slugging, head-on rushes can beat the welterweight champion, then it is good night for the art of self defense."

Britton feels as I do, that O'Dowd will be shown the folly of not learning to box.

Jack will hit Mike with everything but the gate receipts, when the boys meet. Sincerely,
DAN MORGAN.

Frank P. Walsh Honorary Referee.
Frank P. Walsh, former Chairman of the United States War Labor Board, has accepted the invitation of the Eccentric Firemen of New York to act as honorary referee and to distribute the prizes at their annual picnic and games, which will be held at Celler Park, Long Island, Sunday. Prominent labor leaders from all over the United States will be on the committee that will meet and honor Mr. Walsh. The proceeds of the games will go to the death burial fund of the firemen's organization. Over five hundred members of the Firemen's Union of New York belonged to the United States military forces during the war and the consequent expenses to the organization have been enormous. The union is receiving the generous support that it deserves from the firemen and the general public.
